Child Ages 4-8

School Play

Child: Can I choose my own character in the play?

Teacher: Sure. What character would you like to be?

Child: I want to be the giraffe.

Teacher: But, you're too short to play the giraffe. How about you play the lion?

Child: Rooooaaarrrr! I'd be a good lion.

Teacher: Yes, with that roar you would.

Child: Yay! I'm the lion.

Child: School was really good today.

Parent: Great! Tell me about it.

Child: We do crafts, sing songs, play games, color, and today we learned some jokes. Want to hear one?

Parent: Sure. Tell me.

Child: Knock, knock.

Parent: Who's there?

Child: Theodore.

Parent: Theodore, who?

Child: Theodore was locked, so I had to knock.

Amy's friend has a crush on a guy in her office and needs Amy's advice on first dates.

Amy: Why did you make me rush over here?

Hannah: Well, there is this guy in my new office.

Amy: Nice. You need a proper crush. Someone who you're excited to see every day and gives you a reason to dress nicely. Next step, that guy asks you out for a date.

Hannah: I've never been out on a date, except back in high school.

Amy: You're kidding? Don't worry. I'll find the guy I'll plan the date. All you have to do is bring your favorite lipstick. Trust me!

Hannah is resigning from her office and wants her protegee Jill to replace her.

Hannah: Thanks for coming. I guess you've heard I'm stepping down as chairman, and now I need to name my replacement. I'm naming you.

Jill: You're telling me this now? After you already quit?

Hannah: If I'd told you before, you would have said, "No." Then, I couldn't step down.

Jill: Well, I'm still saying "no."

Hannah: Why? This is what you're working here for. You're great at this. Finish what we started. No one is better suited to take over than you.

Carolyn pulls into the driveway to see her brother's car has been wrecked. She walks in the house and her brother is sitting on the couch.

Carolyn: What happened to your car?

Tom: I was leaving school and I pulled out in front of someone, and they hit me.

Carolyn: Mom and Dad are really going to be mad about this.

Tom: What should I do?

Carolyn: Well, all I know is you'll probably have to get a job to pay for it.

Tom: Leave me alone so that I can think of a good plan.

Carolyn: Better think fast. They just pulled in the driveway.

Ethan confronts his sister who used his account to spy on her boyfriend.

Becca: Anger is not a good look on you, Ethan.

Ethan: That's a face I reserve only for you. Did you use my account?

Becca: Oh, I may have, to spy on Chad. I thought he was lying to me, so I contacted his best friend, Sam Daniels and said some mean things about Chad.

Ethan: You trolled Sam Daniels..... the class president and the most popular kid in school?

Becca: Maybe. You're going to have to fix this, so your account can be unlocked.

Ethan: Me? You did it!

Becca: Well, I guess you're right. Maybe I should fix it.

Billy goes to the movie theatre to get over his Ex-Girlfriend.

Billy: I'll have some M&Ms...a Reese's Peanut Butter Cup...a large popcorn...some Milk Duds, Nachos...and a Coke.

Sarah: Is that all? Oh, hey! I just recognized you. I sit behind you in English class.

Billy: What are you... some kind of stalker?

Sarah: Hey... I work here. You just came to MY counter... and ordered food. A lot of food.

Billy: My girlfriend dumped me...okay? And the prom is in two weeks. What did you say your name was?

Sarah: Sarah. Sarah Lewis.

Billy: Would you want to go with me?

Sarah: I'll get you extra butter for that popcorn?

Billy: So, I take it, that's a yes?

Tyler tries to con his dad into building him a new room.

Tyler: Check it out, Dad! Here's the plans for the new room you're going to build for me. What do you think?

Dad: I think you're dreaming. It looks like the Playboy Mansion.

Tyler: Yeah, there's the Jacuzzi tub, Alaskan king size bed, and 85-inch Portrait TV with theater sound and lounging area.

Dad: And, what makes you think I'm going to build you this man cave?

Tyler: C'mon, Dad, face it. The day is going to come when you'll be too old to do anything but sit on the porch, drink lemonade, and look for your teeth. You take care of me now, and I'll take care of you later.

Michael tries to convince his girlfriend Kerry to have dinner with his parents.

Michael: My parents are coming into town tonight, and they want us to meet them for dinner.

Kerry: Your mother is like the last person I want to spend my evening with. I don't mind your dad so much.

Michael: Mom just has a weird sense of humor. She means well.

Kerry: Mike, I don't want to have dinner with someone who is always analyzing my every move.

Michael: Okay, you've made your point. But she IS my mom. Just don't give her a reason to judge or criticize.

Jack McMillan is a dance instructor who wants his student to study in Paris.

Ladd: So, you're saying you want me to study dance in France?

Jack: It would be for six months. You'd train with them and learn the Paris way.

Ladd: But I was going on a trip through the national parks with my family, and my brother's graduating from middle school.

Jack: You'll miss some things for sure, but it's a once in a lifetime opportunity.

Ladd: Thanks, Mr. McMillan. I'll do it. Wow! French girls and the wine flows freely.

Tiffany & her friend Jodi go shopping.

Tiffany: Jodi, come here. You've got to see this dress. It's outrageous and perfect for the dance.

Jodi: I love it. You'd look so great in that.

Tiffany: I love the color and the sleeves, too. But my mom wouldn't let me get it.

Jodi: Why not?

Tiffany: It's too expensive.

Jodi: That's what my mom would say, too. Let's keep looking.

Tiffany: Hold on!! I found another one, and the price is a lot better.

Lisa's sibling needs a tooth pulled, and she wants to be a dentist.

Lisa: It's time, Chris. Let me pull that tooth.

Chris: No way. I'm not going to be your guinea pig. You have no idea what you're doing.

Lisa: It's not that hard. I watched a bunch of videos on it. It's not rocket science. I know I can do it. Plus, we've got most of what we need in the first aid kit.

Chris: I'm not letting you pull out one of my teeth!

Lisa: OK then. If you want to be in pain, don't keep complaining to me.

Matthew finally gets his own room, away from his sister.

Matthew: So, we finally get our own rooms...this is great!

Angela: Yep, no more of you leaving your stinky clothes all over the floor or you flipping on the light when I'm trying to sleep.

Matthew: Aww- You're gonna miss me I know. And I don't have to look at your stupid dolls anymore or your girly pink bedspread.

Angela: So, you won't miss me?

Matthew: Well...maybe just a little, I mean you are my sister, so I guess I have to.

Alex is walking into a café with his mom and notices a girl from school.

Alex: Oh, no! Nori Sterling is here.

Mom: Why don't you go over and say hi?

Alex: Are you kidding? Nori is the most popular girl in school. She doesn't want to be bothered by me. Uh, oh! She's waving to me. Maybe I should give her a quick wave.

Mom: That was a good idea. Look! Here she comes.

Alex: Uh, oh! I'm in trouble now. Every time I try to talk to her, sound comes out, but words don't follow. So embarrassing.
